Dear Valued Customer,

Following our recent communication regarding price adjustments, we need to inform you of a further increase driven by the continued escalation of the situation in the Middle East.

Since our last update, market conditions have deteriorated further. The ongoing conflict is intensifying pressure on global energy markets, leading to additional increases in feedstock and raw material costs. In particular, oil and petrochemical derivatives continue to rise, directly impacting key resins such as PE, PP, ABS, Cor-X, Bubble-X, and PET. At the same time, supply availability remains constrained, with growing uncertainty around production continuity and logistics.

As a result, we are required to implement an additional price increase effective May 4, 2026, on all new orders and shipments. This adjustment is incremental to the previous increase and reflects the latest cost developments in the market.

We understand that consecutive increases are challenging. However, the speed and magnitude of these external cost drivers leave limited room for absorption. We remain focused on securing supply, leveraging our strong supplier base, and maintaining reliable deliveries to support your business.
